Dropped from Plane

EAST BREWSTER, Mass., Feb. 10—(UP)—Seven CCC workers, all alive despite more than 22 hours' exposure to rain, snow and freezing weather, were rescued by coast guards from two ice cakes in Cape Cod bay today.

Completion of the daring rescue was reported in a briefly-worded note dropped here by Lieut. P. G. Miller, pilot of a coast guard amphibian, shortly before 11 a. m. The note read:

"Seven men accounted for. Being taken to cutter now."

The cutter was the Harriet Lane, which had battled her way for hours through thick ice that coated virtually all of Cape Cod bay.

All Suffer Exposure

John Fitzsimmons, 19, of Portsmouth, one of those rescued, was found to be suffering from frozen feet. All the seven were from Rhode Island.

The others, all suffering from exposure, were:

WOOD TO ENTER ENGINEER RACE

Aide of Sweetman Obtain
Petition; Sark for Board

Two more candidates for county offices were circulating their petitions Monday.

Ralph Wood, Democrat, 431 E. Main-st., will be a candidate for the office of county engineer. Mr. Wood has served as a deputy engineer since 1929 under Howard Sweetman.

John H. Sark, Harrison-twp., obtained his petition from the County Board of Elections for county commissioner. Mr. Sark is a Republican.

22 DISCHARGED RELIEF WORKERS WARNED, HIRED

Twenty-two WPA employees, discharged Feb. 5 for failing to perform their duty in protecting material and equipment, were returned to the project Monday morning by Vattier Courtright, local engineer.

The official notice given by Mr. Courtright stated: "You may return to work Monday, Feb. 10 at 8 a. m. with definite understanding that a recurrence of the situation means definite and permanent suspension from further work on WPA. This not only applies to the men listed but to any others that might be guilty of such infractions."

The men were laid off following an investigation revealing street tar was burned for heat. They reported for work Monday but the project was not in operation because of the severe cold weather.

The action charges habitual drunkenness, mental cruelty, gross neglect and failure to provide. It states they were married May 13, 1924 and have three children, Wilbus, 11, Russell, 8, and David, 1 year. The petition also asked a temporary injunction preventing the defendant from encumbering property. Attorney W. D. Radcliff represents Mrs. Sowers.

ARMY'S BUDGET SETS NEW MARK

House Approves Money to
Strengthen Defense

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(UP)—The house appropriations committee today reported favorably a peace-time, record smashing $543,341,000 war department appropriation bill for the 1937 fiscal year.

The bill provides drastic strengthening of air, land and coastal defense forces.

The bill, an increase of $120,444,000 over last year's appropriation, was $28,200,000 less than the budget estimate.

Most of the increase was attributed to an appropriation of $168,359,985 for non-military activities, including $129,000,000 for rivers and harbors projects authorized by congress.

Principal provisions of the bill:

1. An enlisted force of not less than 150,000 men.
2. The procurement of 565 new planes.
3. Expenditure of $8,500,000 for sea-coast defense projects.
4. An increase of 5,000 officers and men in the national guard to a total of 200,000.

The bill carried a total of $374,981,000 for military purposes and made available usage of $2,845,592 by reappropriation. For military purposes alone, the new bill exceeds last year's by $23,803,501.

Budget estimates carried provisions for only 147,000 men but the increase was aimed to garrison completely the Panama and Hawaiian defenses.

A defective flue was believed to have started the fire. Fire departments of Fairfield and Osborn fought the blaze.

NOT EVEN PRISONERS ARE SAFE IN PERRY-CO JAIL

NEW LEXINGTON, Feb. 10—(UP)—Six prisoners of the city jail here were recovering today from wounds inflicted by Sally Davis Conn, 65, and his son John, 21, who opened the outer jail door Saturday night and fired into the cells after they had been refused admission.

The two men had demanded that they be given refuge in the jail, which already was filled, and warned Sheriff James Adrian that "murder will be committed" when he refused their request.

Two transients in the jail, Frank Nelson, 45, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Frank Alley, 62, Fairmount, Ky., were shot in the arms and legs by the father and son who were being held in Perry-co jail here while Prosecutor T. B. Williams investigates.

Governor to Visit Bruno In His Cell

Hoffman Asks Wilentz to Help Him Seek More
Truth About Abduction

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 10.—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman may visit Bruno Richard Hauptmann in his death cell again and attempt to wring from him new information about Lindbergh kidnapping case, informed capitol sources said today.

Hoffman was encouraged by the outspoken support of the young Republicans of New Jersey, probably the most powerful rival in the state of the old guard Republican state committee faction that has threatened Hoffman's political life since he saved Hauptmann from death last month.

It was reported that the governor had asked Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who prosecuted Hauptmann for the Lindbergh kidnapping, to accompany him to the condemned man's cell and help him obtain information he thinks Hauptmann may have.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(UP)—The Supreme court again today delayed its decision on the administration's power program as typified in the Tennessee Valley experiment.

The decision has been expected each session of the court for more than a month since it invalidated the AAA. Each time a crowded courtroom has been disappointed.

Interest centers on the immediate fate of TVA with its unprecedented plan to provide cheap power through federal development and distribution, but the case may have an affect reaching to numerous other power projects in which the federal government has had a hand.

Because of the long delay in deciding the case, it was believed almost certain that the ruling would serve as a mold for future power operations.

Many Opinions Possible

It was possible the court's opinion when finally given might take one of many trends. They were:

1. Denial of the federal government's right to dispose of power developed in connection with navigation or flood control projects in competition with private industry.
2. Approval of such a power.
3. Refusal of the right of non-voting preferred stockholders of the Alabama Power company, plaintiffs in the TVA suit, to challenge the sale of the company's transmission lines to TVA.
4. Approval of the sale of the power developed at Wilson dam but leaving undetermined the right

A year ago he was appointed chief of the securities division. He made a trip to Mexico last summer to investigate a lumber firm which had requested permission to sell securities in Ohio. Physicians believed he may have become infected with a tropical disease during the trip.

He was an accomplished athlete. During his high school days he was national junior backstroke swimming champion. He attended Depaw and Ohio State universities.

CITY HALL PET, STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE, KILLED

Tommy, city hall cat, was struck by a hit-skip motorist Saturday night and all his nine lives were taken.

Tommy had been a resident of the city building for more than a year and spent most of his time in the "Bum" room. Officers reported he strolled into the building and made it his home. Each morning Officer Fred Fitzpatrick brought the cat table scraps.

Tommy has a successor that wandered into the city building about a month ago but so far officers have given the new cat no name.

SQUEAL FROM INCUBATOR SHOWS TINY BABY ALIVE

OAKLAND, Cal., Feb. 10—(UP)—An occasional squeal from a glass-enclosed incubator today attested apparent improvement in the condition of the world's smallest baby, 15-ounce Nancy Lee Vogt.

Dr. J. W. Sherick and Dr. H. E. Stanford, physicians attending the tiny infant born to Mrs. Anne Vogt, 34, eight days ago, said Nancy Lee is overcoming an attack of jaundice which had caused some concern for her and that she now is being given more food.

"The patient is more alert and her condition is quite satisfactory," the physicians announced. "We are now feeding the patient two teaspoons of buttermilk mixed with lactose every two hours."

May Lead Ohio Anti-Borah Forces

APPEARANCE of Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, for a speech in Cincinnati, O., stimulated the "beat Borah" sentiment among Ohio Republican circles. Colonel Knox deferred making the expected announcement that he would enter the Ohio presidential primary and as a result it was suggested by the Old Guard that the Ohio G. O. P. back Knox as its first choice for the Republican nomination for president, and secondly, that the central committee adopt the publisher as its "favorite son" candidate.

INJURIES MINOR AS CARS CRASH

Officers Investigate Three
Wrecks; Highways Icy

Three auto accidents were investigated by city and county officers during the week-end.

Robert Hedges, 22, of Ashville, driving a Ford sedan, narrowly escaped injury early Sunday when his car skidded on Route 23 about a quarter of a mile north of the city, struck a telephone pole and overturned in a ditch. Hedges, riding alone, was uninjured.

Autos driven by John Bowsher, E. Union-st., traveling north on Pickaway-st., and Woodrow Clifton, Rt. 5, going west on Mound-st., were damaged when they collided at the intersection.

Three persons were treated by Dr. E. L. Montgomery for minor cuts and bruises Saturday afternoon after an accident at Route 22 and 104. A Chevrolet roadster traveling south of Route 104, driven by Gilbert Morrison, W. Main-st., Columbus, collided with a DeSoto sedan, going east on Route 22, driven by C. H. Stroupe, Mt. Sterling.

Mr. Stroupe suffered a lacerated right knee and Mrs. Morrison and a daughter, Francis, 12, were treated for bruises.

CINDERS PUT ON ROADS

Employees of the highway department worked three hours Sunday spreading cinders on icy stretches on the state routes.

Trains between Des Moines and Minneapolis were cancelled last night. Winds had piled great drifts across highways and hundreds of miles of roads were impassable throughout the midwest.

Milk Delivery Halted

Iowa, suffering from an acute cold shortage, was menaced by a food shortage. Disruption of train and truck schedules prevent milk deliveries to many towns. Des Moines dealers rationed milk to families with small children.

Sioux City had enough milk to last through the day but unless highways are opened today, there will be no milk tomorrow. Three trains arrived late last night gave Sioux City its first milk since Friday.

Towns near Arnolds Park, Ia., near the Minnesota border, were cut off from bread supplies by snow drifts. Farm families, isolated by snow, went into reserve food supplies and many may be suffering.

BORAH AND FESS IN VERBAL BOUT OVER CANDIDACY

Challenge of Idaho Man for Foe May Be Ignored;
Ohioan Hits His Ballotting

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Sen. William E. Borah's challenge to the regular Republican leadership to pit a presidential candidate against him in Ohio probably will be ignored, it appeared today.

Party leaders are expected to proceed with their plans for an unopposed or favorite son delegation from Ohio to the Republican National convention. Borah's Ohio representatives have taken the first step toward putting up candidates for all 52 of the delegate seats to be filled in the Ohio primary May 12.

Borah is the only candidate who has announced he would go before Ohio voters, Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas is not expected to contest the state, Sen. L. J. Dickinson of Iowa has said he would not and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg insists he is not a candidate. A decision is expected shortly from Frank Knox, of Chicago.

Ex-Sen. Fess Replies

Borah's charge that the favorite son plan in Ohio was a "sham and a deception," brought reply today from Former Sen. Simeon D. Fess of Ohio. As former chairman of the Republican National committee and a politician of ability and experience, Fess practically read Borah out of the party. He denied Borah's suggestion that he was for Herbert C. Hoover for president.

"I couldn't be for Sen. Borah," Fess added, "without feeling compelled to apologize to the Republicans of the state and nation. The Republicans will want a candidate who has voted for more Republican measures than Democratic proposals and who is more popular with Republicans than with Democrats."

"The standard bearer of the Republicans must take a position against the new philosophy of the New Deal as a common sense proposition."

"The press reports the president as pleased with Sen. Borah's candidacy. When asked whether that was because he would be the easiest candidate to beat, the president was quoted as replying: 'Oh, no, it is because if he were elected, he would go farthest in carrying out my policies.'"

The Harriet Lane made the rescue by approaching as closely as possible to the ice cakes on which the seven were marooned, and then sending a party across several hundred yards of ice with a dory.

Hunger from which the youths had suffered during the first 20 hours of their isolation had been appeased by emergency food supplies dropped by army planes from the Concord, N. H., base of winter air maneuvers.

For a time during the night fears had been felt that the boys might never be found alive. Although they had suffered severely from exposure, they were in far better condition than had been anticipated.

Two Saved First

The ice crew from the cutter first rescued two of the youths who had been trapped on a small ice cake which broke off the larger one. Shortly after, rescuers reached the other five, beating a crew

New Deal lawyers refused to estimate the possible effect of an adverse decision on the Roosevelt power program.

May Affect Towns

Directly in connection with TVA, it was felt that an adverse ruling would affect municipal power projects in a dozen Tennessee valley cities and towns which have been financed with WPA funds. Without federal authority to distribute TVA power, the municipalities presumably would be obliged to build their own generators or transmission lines or buy from private power interests.

Also accompanying Mrs. Long were her sons, Russell, student at Louisiana State university, and Palmer. Russell, whose resemblance to his father is striking, will return to school in a day or two. He carried several books under his arm.

Gov. James A. Noe of Louisiana, who appointed Mrs. Long to the senate after the death of Gov. O. K. Allen, was with the party. He said 99.9 per cent of the people of Louisiana are "tremendously pleased" by appointment of Mrs. Long.

Others included Seymour Weiss, political associate of Long; Mrs. Aldin Hollingshead, a sister, and Gilmore McConnell, a brother. Earl Cristenderry, Long's secretary, met the party.

Quiet and gracious in contrast to the rough manners of the Kingfish, Mrs. Long returned to a capital which knew her only as the retiring, unostentatious wife of one of the most colorful figures that Washington had ever seen.

Sits Near Colleague

Mrs. Long has been assigned a seat in the rear row of Democratic senators, a few desks away from Mrs. Hattie Caraway, the only woman thus far to serve a regular term in the senate. Long was largely instrumental in winning that election for Mrs. Caraway.

It was Mrs. Long's victory 26 years ago in the cake-baking contest that won her a husband. Long at the time was a salesman for a shortening compound, promoting cake-making competitions as a means of calling attention to his product.

Long was only 17 at the time and Mrs. Long's efforts aided him considerably in furthering his political ambitions. She was the custodian of the elaborate card indices which he kept for use in his political campaigns.

HOMICIDE SQUAD ROBBED

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(UP)—The police homicide squad was almost as interested in burglaries as in murders today. Someone smashed the rear window of the squad's motor car in front of headquarters last night and stole a kit of tools. The tools included hacksaws, chisels, a steel jimmy, pliers, shears, rubber gloves and a flashlight. The chagrined homicide squad didn't need Commissioner Lewis Valentine's caustic comment to know that burglars also use those tools.

MARRIED IN VAULT

JOPLIN, Mo., Feb. 10.—(UP)—Charles Homan of Tulsa, Okla., and Miss Lorraine Thompson of Joplin wanted their marriage kept secret, so they persuaded Frank Armstrong, justice of the peace, to perform the ceremony in his office vault.

CELLAR IS PLEASANT

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Feb. 10.—(UP)—Workers on the new city hall foundations are glad to go down into the 40 foot caissons these days for the temperature in them is in the 50's while at ground level it is near zero.

WOMAN'S SUSPICIOUS

Kansas City, Kan., Feb. 10.—(UP)—Jobita Pisen, 4, attracted by the frost sparkling on a steel pole, put her tongue to it for a taste. It was 15 minutes before police could thaw her loose.

ONLY THE WIND

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Three men entered a loop music store by shattering a plate glass window. Before the robbers fled they tried out the instruments. Two of them tooted a few strains on saxophones while the third kept accompaniment on an accordion. A night watchman reported he heard "a little tootin'" but figured it was just the wind howling.

A charge of trespassing on railroad property was placed against Colvin. His fine was suspended by Mayor Graham. Bates, charged with trespassing and larceny, was released when he made arrangements to settle.

Entries Heavier for 2nd Week

MRS. DREISBACH WINS WITH "YELLOW ANGEL FOOD"

Prizes of $3, $2 and $1 will be awarded every week for the three best entries in this recipe contest. All you have to do is select some recipe that you consider a "best" and mail or bring to this office not later than Thursday of this week. Competent judges have been selected to carefully check each entry. Be sure you accompany your recipe with a sales slip from one of the advertisers or a container or wrapper of one of the products advertised.

Those who submitted entries in the past and failed to be among the prize winners are urged to send in more recipes. Do not become discouraged after one attempt. YOUR RECIPE MAY BE A PRIZE WINNER THIS WEEK, and a three dollar check is well worth the effort!

The second week of our recipe contest has passed and we have three more winners of our $6 award, which is to be given every week. The judges experienced a busy two days in studying each entry thoroughly and the results of their labors are listed below.

(NOTE: A new system will be used this coming week in turning the entries over to the judges from the office of the editor of this page. As each entry is received it will be given a number and the name of the person entering it will be torn or erased from that recipe. This action will forestall any claim of favoritism on the part of entrants. When your recipe has been prepared this week place your name at the bottom of the last page so it may be cut off from the recipe itself.)

Please include only ONE recipe with each wrapper, container or sales slip. If possible, use only one side of paper for your recipe.

YELLOW ANGEL FOOD

5 Eggs
1½ cup cold water
1½ cups sugar
1½ cups flour "Laurelville Special". Sift three times
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar

Beat yolks of eggs until thick and lemon colored. Add water and beat 2 minutes, add sugar and beat a minute. Add flour, baking powder and salt sifted together. Add vanilla. Beat whites stiff, adding cream of tartar when foaming. Fold whites into batter and pour in ungreased angel food pan. Bake in oven which is slow at first. After 15 minutes increase heat to moderate oven. Then bake for another 30 minutes. Invert pan until cake is cold. Ice with "Ice Cream Icing".

Ice Cream Icing

2 tablespoons butter creamed
2 unbeaten egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla

Enough powdered sugar to make icing creamy, beat until smooth and of right consistency for spreading on cake.

An empty Special Patent Flour sack accompanied this recipe.

SECOND PRIZE

Submitted by

Mrs. H. W. Moore

GINGERBREAD

Place in a warm mixing bowl
½ cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup molasses
2 eggs
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup of flour—Beat together very hard for two minutes, using a slotted spoon or Dover egg beater. Add one more cupful of flour sifted with one teaspoon of soda and a little salt; beat again for one minute. This will be rather a stiff batter. Last add ½ cup of boiling water and beat again briefly—Bake in moderate oven. The cake is very light, tender and delicious when served immediately with whipped cream, or a spoonful of vanilla ice cream with each serving.

Variety in baking makes a welcome change — Marshmallows may be split and dropped on top of batter, or if desired bake in two pans and put together with strawberry jam or orange marmalade — Another nice fruit filling is made, by draining juice from apricots and then pressing them through a sieve—To one cup of pulp, add one egg white and one scant cup of sugar, beat until thick with Dover beater, or in place of apricots substitute fresh strawberries or raspberries.

THREE YEARS OF HITLER

GERMANY now enters the fourth year of government under the man who was once a corporal in the Austrian army. He is not an admired or a respected figure in the world in which we live. There is an inclination, in fact, to view him as grotesque. But few persons of discernment will make the mistake of looking upon Herr Hitler as an unimportant personality in the general scheme of international affairs.

Hate, despise, ridicule or condemn him, as most fair-minded persons do, the fact nevertheless remains that Hitler has gathered to himself great power which he knows how to exercise effectively. Germany, beaten, dismembered and ruined economically by the war, no longer is regarded as important.

In defiance of Versailles and the vigilance of powerful and fearful enemies, Germany has reared and, through remarkable determination and resourcefulness, has been developed into one of the two or three most powerful military forces in Europe. Even now the mind's eye of the dictator turns to the west and the east in search of new frontiers.

Of course, the rearmament of Germany has not been accomplished without heavy sacrifices. The German people have been stripped of their religious, their academic and their social freedom. Most of their liberties are gone. Their economic structure is built upon the sands and it is only through the most ruthless methods that national discipline is maintained.

It does not seem just or reasonable that such a government, sustained by oppression, should endure. Its future becomes a matter for interesting speculation.

Can't the supreme court do something about the weather?

So starved are we for a sign of spring that even a poem on the subject would be welcome.

What to do with farm surpluses is given practical illustration by an Indian rajah, at whose party 11,000 head of livestock were consumed.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

One Republican observes with equanimity the entrance of Senator William E. Borah into Ohio to give open battle to the regulars. That man is Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan.

The stage had all been set for "favorite sons" in Ohio and elsewhere, to permit a "trading basis" at the national convention in Cleveland.

Senator Borah objected to that. The "favorite son" states could swing enough votes to nominate Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas.

Now Senator Borah will fight a battle royal with the regulars, and try to prevent the choosing of "favorite sons" in such big states as Ohio.

Adherents of Senator Vandenberg believe that when the two sides have battled themselves to exhaustion, he will be able to capture the nomination.

BORAH MAY WIN

Senator Borah may win out at that, in Ohio. The machine Republicans in Cleveland, as well as the progressive Republicans, have lined up for Borah.

PROSPERITY?

New Dealers are making much of this paragraph in The Wall Street Journal:

"Earnings of E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co., from its chemical business last year, were by far the largest in the company's history, exceeding even 1929 by about 18 per cent and 1928 by more than 80 per cent, the company's annual statement reveals."

ALSO QUOTED

Also quoted by ultra-New Dealers is this comment made by Dr. Charles Edward A. Winslow, professor of public health at Yale School of Medicine (speaking before the New Jersey Institute of Family Relations):

"If we build model housing projects in slum districts and expect the investment to pay, we defeat our purpose. The poor can't pay the rent. They move out, and higher income, white-collar groups move in. The only solution is to provide subsidies to help these people pay the rent. If we put them into model houses, with subsidies, they will respond quickly to their new environment."

Comptroller General McCall, Republican, recently ruled that rent on governmental housing projects would have to be sufficiently high to liquidate the investment.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

OPPOSING OPINIONS CAUSE BITTERNESS BETWEEN JUSTICES STONE, ROBERTS

WASHINGTON—For some time it has been no secret that there is a definite lack of cordiality between certain members of the Supreme Court. How far that bitterness extends, however, is known only to a few.

Quite open in their hostility to the liberal wing of the Court have been Justices McReynolds and Butler. McReynolds blatantly read a newspaper when Justice Cardozo took his oath, usually does not take lunch with his colleagues, and delivered a scorching tirade from the bench when the Gold Decision was handed down.

Just as deep-rooted, but carefully concealed by surface cordiality, is another strained relationship between two of the ablest and most forceful members of the Court.

They are Justice Harlan Fiske Stone and Justice Owen J. Roberts.

STONE VS. ROBERTS

These are the two men who delivered the vigorous and diametrically opposite decisions in the AAA case. They are also the two men who have handed down more conflicting opinions than any other two justices. Of recent years they have opposed each other all along the line.

And yet—though few people know it—Justice Roberts owes his appointment to Justice Stone.

It happened that Justice Stone was Herbert Hoover's closest adviser on all Court matters. Every morning at seven o'clock, Stone went to the White House to play handball with the President, afterward drank orange juice with him, gave advice on whatever was on Hoover's mind.

In this way he recommended the appointment of Roberts, and later of Cardozo, to the Supreme bench.

Stone had known Roberts as government attorney in the Teapot Dome oil scandals, was greatly impressed by his ability, strongly urged him upon Hoover. Since, then, however, he has made no secret of his disappointment in Roberts' apparent desertion of the liberal views he seemed to hold as Teapot Dome attorney.

PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES

One of the peculiar twists which fate has given to the situation is that both Stone and Roberts, once good friends, now in constant disagreement, have been mentioned frequently as Republican presidential timber.

Intermittently during the past three years, friends of Justice Stone have approached him asking permission to boost him for the nomination. At first Stone's friends say he considered the matter seriously. But for approximately two years he has turned a complete cold shoulder to the idea.

Justice Roberts also has told close friends he did not want to get into the Presidential race. However, Roberts seems to have considered the question much more seriously than Stone. Only a short time ago it was a question of grave debate within the Roberts family.

With All My Heart

BY SARA CHRISTY

READ THIS FIRST:

Thora Dahl, who has left her home in Minnesota and journeyed east, obtains a position as housekeeper for an eccentric gentleman named Selwyn Marsh who lives in suburban New York. She is to replace a Mrs. Myron who is going on a long vacation. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 8

TO THORA'S surprise, there was no sign of Mr. Marsh when she entered the dining room the next morning, refreshed by a night's sleep and ready for any emergency. After some hesitation, she had donned a house dress, blue-checked, a shade that very nearly matched her eyes. Her golden hair was smooth and her cheeks glowing.

Mrs. Myron, who was seated alone at the table, compressed her lips a trifle as she looked up. All she said was:

"Good morning. Mr. Marsh is having his toast and coffee in the library. He wants to see you . . . after you eat."

Thora's spirits suddenly fell. What did he want to tell her . . . that he couldn't just as well have told Mrs. Myron? That little woman's face was perfectly expressionless as she attacked her cereal. What had Thora done . . . or what hadn't she done? Was Mr. Marsh going to tell her that she didn't suit? Should she have acted differently? Been more talkative, assertive . . . ? She couldn't do that, under the circumstances.

Well, whatever it was, it would soon be over with. She made an appearance of eating and drank her coffee gratefully. Then, without a word, she left the table and walked composedly to the library door. It was closed. She rapped on it gently.

"Come on in!" called the familiar harsh voice of the day before. "Well . . ." Marsh sat back in his chair and stared.

"Mrs. Myron said you wished to speak to me, Mr. Marsh."

"Oh, yes . . ." He continued staring at her from under his drawn brows, as if she were an apparition of some sort. Thora felt more uncomfortable still, but decided to take the situation into her own hands.

"Did you wish to tell me that you had changed your mind about . . . me?" she suggested calmly.

"No, I wanted to say that I had a talk with Mrs. Myron last night. She's either completely sold on you, or she's taken a sudden notion to get away. She tells me you can manage the place well enough. What do you think?"

"I will try."

"Then I'll tell her to get along whenever it suits. If you run into anything you think you can't handle, see me. But try and work it out by yourself. I hate to be bothered with trifles."

"Very well."

"And let's get off on the right foot. When Mrs. Myron turns over her keys to you, you're then boss. I'll be right up to you, and don't forget I said so."

"Yes, sir," said Thora Dahl.

Little Mrs. Myron lost no time in making ready for her departure from Fair Acres.

"I guess Selwyn gave you the idea I was all worn out and ready for the scrap heap," she told Thora, glancing up from the stool she had placed between two open trunks. At her feet was a pile of precisely folded garments which she was dividing between the two receptacles as her deliberations dictated.

"He said that you hadn't been very well," the girl admitted.

"Nonsense! I haven't had a vacation for years. But this place is getting on my nerves."

Thora nodded and said nothing.

"That's all," Mrs. Myron explained positively. "I need a rest and Selwyn knows it, same as he knows I'll come back any time he wants me." She held up a long black cotton stocking and examined it through her spectacles. "I guess these'll stand another mending. I'm quite a hand to hold on to things."

Her glance shifted to Thora's face. "It's a good thing for a girl to put herself through her spectacles. I guess you never knows what may happen. Wilma knows enough away in a year to dress two or three women. Pity you're not nearer a size."

Thora waited. Mrs. Myron appeared to be lapsing into a near-confidential mood.

"I hate to leave Selwyn, now the time's come," the older woman pursued meditatively. "Land knows, he's plenty old enough to look out for himself. But I've always done it. I can tell him anything I've a mind to . . . even if he doesn't pay much attention. He's terribly absent-minded at times. I hope you'll look after him."

"This place is getting on my nerves."

"I will try to."

"I don't know . . ." Mrs. Myron's eyes traveled to the nearest window and stared out speculatively. "I guess I shouldn't say anything about it, but I figure you got a lot of good sense. I started to tell you one day about . . . Dottie Steele. I think I will."

Here it was at last.

"She was a friend of Elizabeth's. I don't know what she did with her husband . . . maybe he's dead by now. She lives on the next place, but she runs over here a lot. You'll see through her. Anybody could . . . but a man. She's always tried to make it look like Selwyn needed tending to. More lately it's been Wilma. She's forever having something to say about the poor girl needing a mother. As if Wilma didn't have me!"

Thora made no rejoinder. This was not a time to break the spell.

"That's what's been getting on my nerves," Mrs. Myron admitted. She compressed her lips tightly. "Dottie Steele's very sweet to me in front of my face. But she doesn't like me. She knows I'm smart enough to see what she's up to and she's found out she can't boss me. It took Selwyn a long time to figure I needed a vacation. She put him up to it, of course. She'll try to boss you, my dear."

"Will she?"

"She will. You may not know it . . . but that's why I told you what I did the other day. She's a designing woman, if ever there was one."

DIET AND HEALTH

Rest and Mild Diet Best To Treat Common Colds

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IN THE FIELD of the treatment of the common cold there is just as much confusion as there is in the field of prevention. Lieut. Col. George B. Foster, who did some valuable research in the cause of the common cold, was quoted a year or two ago as saying that he was averse to impressionistic science and, therefore, had nothing to say on the subject. The fellow who has a cold may be just as averse to impressionistic science as anybody, but he would like to know if he can get some relief, and most of the treatments are directed towards relief.

A word of warning should be sounded against the treatments, especially those strenuous treatments, which are directed against cure. To follow the advice of those who tell you to go out in the winter weather and walk ten miles, or take a cold bath, or to do both, does more harm than good. If there is any such thing as colds running into pneumonia, this is one of the ways in which it happens.

The best advice that can be given anybody with a cold is to conserve the recuperative powers of the body by rest and a mild diet. And this is exactly what the body instinctively tells you to do, anyway.

Professor's Advice

The best advice for the treatment of the common cold, I believe, is that given by Dr. Harold S. Diehl, professor of preventive medicine at the University of Minnesota. From his recent book, called "Healthful Living," I abstract his advice as follows:

"Several years ago a series of studies were instituted by the health service of the University of Minnesota to determine the value of various forms of treatment of the common cold. . . . Physicians wrote prescriptions for 'cold medication'. . . . After forty-eight hours of treatment the patients reported the results on cards prepared for this purpose. Upon the basis of these reports the effectiveness of the medication in each case was estimated."

Some of the cold capsules had nothing but milk and sugar, and others had nothing but aspirin, and others had a combination of drugs.

The milk-sugar capsules "were included so that we might know what proportion of patients would recover without treatment in the forty-eight-hour period for which results were reported. . . . Approximately 35 per cent of the students who got only sugar tablets reported improvement or cure of their acute colds within forty-eight hours. Some of these experienced such prompt and remarkable improvement that they were moved to comment that these tablets were the most effective treatment that they had ever tried for their colds. The fact that such a large percentage of persons with colds recover spontaneously within a few days is noteworthy."

"In this study several opium derivatives which carry no practical danger of habituation were tried in different combinations, proportions and dosages. Finally, a preparation consisting of equal parts of codeine and paracetamol was selected as most valuable for this purpose. Of 1,500 students who were given this preparation for the treatment of acute head colds, between 70 and 75 per cent reported definite improvement or complete relief within twenty-four to forty-eight hours."

S. M. Cryder Sr., Frank Hamilton, Harold Holt, Charles H. Smith, and Albert Crist went to South Bloomingville to see a new gas well shot.

Circleville debaters, negative and affirmative, met Lancaster and Washington C. H. and lost. On the local teams were Scott Eagleston, Earl Leist, Gladys Wentworth, Norma Ross, Harry Boyer, Katherine Eymann, Edward Imbler, and Bonna Rader.

25 YEARS AGO

The medical society had its annual dinner meeting at the American hotel. At the table were Drs. G. H. Colville, A. W. Holman, D. V. Courtright, J. Loring Courtright, H. C. Allen, Howard Jones, G. G. Leist, W. L. Peters, T. Blackstone, O. H. Dunton, G. T. Rowe and G. R. Gardner.

A pretty ceremony was conducted at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Strubbing by Dr. David Tappan when Miss Nelle Hurdle and Robert T. Dills of Columbus were married.

Ruth McManamy has been appointed official stenographer for the department of agriculture at Ohio State university.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

ONE HAND IS AS RARE AS ANOTHER

IF NAMED card by card, one hand is as rare as another. For example, it is just as uncommon to hold 4 deuces, or 4 cards of any other denomination, as it is to hold 4 aces. Consequently when a denizen of 277 Park avenue asked me last evening whether the following problem hand could have been . . . I said, "Yes." I even admitted . . . South might have won the 100 maximum number of tricks in actual play. I will explain that in its proper place. In the meanwhile play the hand duplicate-dummy, to see what South can win in spades, with an opening lead of the K of clubs.

Win the opening lead with dummy's Ace of clubs. Discard declarer's J of hearts. The natural thing then is to win a spade trick in declarer's hand. The odds being some 24 to 1 against East holding all 5 missing trumps it is probable that North will lead the 9 and that East will cover with the 10, to make good the 8. This will be fatal to efficient defense. In case the 10 does not cover the 9 dummy's J will be played. Even the unusual bidding will scarce warn South that East holds all five missing trumps. Bidding went: South, 1-Diamond; West, 3-Hearts; North, 3-Diamonds; East, 3-Hearts; South, 4-Spades; West, 5-Clubs; North, 5-Diamonds; East, 5-Hearts; South, 5-Spades; West, 6-Clubs; North, doubled; East, 6-Hearts; South, doubled; North, 6-Spades; East, doubled.

Do not lead the 9 of spades from dummy, when in with the Ace of clubs. Lead a low spade. Unless East covers win with declarer's 7. If East covers with the 8, win with declarer's J. Lead the K of hearts and ruff in dummy, using the 9 for this purpose.

Lead one round of diamonds, dropping the 10, and making all of declarer's low diamonds good. Lead the last trump from dummy. If East covered the first lead with the 8, finesse declarer's 7, unless East plays the 10. Lead off declarer's three last trumps, picking up all of East's spades. On these three trump tricks discard all dummy's diamonds, leaving declarer's unblocked diamonds good for the last 5 tricks, and giving him a grand slam.

Played normally, the only way for South to make the grand slam is for East to cover the 9 of spades, or for dummy to lead low and for a very shrewd declarer to figure from the bidding that West is void of spades, and finesse the 7. When the trump situation is uncovered proper play of diamonds is well within the power of any expert.

Frank Fay Signs for 13 Weeks on Vallee's Hour Broadway Star to Take Over Own Program in July; Name Added to Many Others Getting Starts With Rudy

Frank Fay has just signed a contract for appearances on Rudy Vallee's Variety hour every Thursday for the next thirteen weeks and on a program of his own starting next July as a result of his success as a guest performer during the last two months.

Fay started his run on the Vallee program Dec. 26 and has returned to the microphone each week since then by popular demand. Tom Howard and Lou Holtz both played repeat engagements for many weeks but Fay's contract is the first one setting these appearances in advance.

His long run on the Thursday night programs makes Fay stand out as the leading new star of 1936. Added significance is attached to his rise to radio fame when it is recalled that the "Outstanding New Star" award in the annual poll of radio editors every year has gone to a performer who first appeared at the microphone in the Vallee Variety hour. Joe Penner was the winner in 1933, when voting in this category was initiated, Helen Jepson in 1934, and Bob Burns in 1935. All these made their radio debut with Vallee.

Many other present headlines first attracted the attention of the radio audience in their network debuts when they were guests on the Vallee hour. In addition to the three mentioned above they include Kate Smith, Eddie Cantor, Rubinoff, Burns and Allen, Frances Langford and Leslie Howard.

Radio Briefs

Stuart Churchill, fine tenor of the Waring program, is featured on a new Musical Reveries program four times a week, and has left the popular Pennsylvanians.

Eleanor Powell of stage, screen and radio is off of the Flying Red Horse program indefinitely. She has overworked herself, the story goes.

CHAMPION READY TO START WORK FOR TITLE BOUT

Braddock to Return to Long-shoreman's Job; to Fight in September

WOODCLIFFE, N. J. Feb. 10.—(UP)—James J. Braddock, back from a 3-week Florida vacation, said today he planned to go back to work as a longshoreman at the Weehawken, N. J., docks next week to get himself back into condition for the defense of his title in September.

He plans to work there on and off, when he has no engagements, during most of the spring and summer. It was work as a longshoreman that put him in the fine physical condition that aided him to wrest the title from Max Baer.

The champion now weighs 212 pounds, about 15 more than his fighting weight. He expects to fight Joe Louis in September and believes the brown bomber's threats not to meet him until next year are just propaganda designed to get a bigger cut of the gate.

"I'm champion and I'll get my 37-1-2 per cent cent," Braddock said. "I think Louis will take what he's offered. He ought to be glad to get the shot at the title."

SEVEN BIG TEN CONTESTS ON SCHEDULE THIS WEEK

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Wisconsin and Illinois, co-champions with Purdue last year, will come out of retirement enforced by semester examinations to enliven the Big Ten basketball race this week.

Tied for sixth place with two wins and three defeats each, they will meet at Champaign Saturday. The Illini will tangle with Iowa tonight while the Badgers are entertaining Ohio State.

Seven conference and two non-conference games are scheduled during the week. Purdue will play at Minnesota and Butler at Northwestern tonight. Saturday will find Indiana at Ohio State, Chicago at Iowa, Northwestern at Purdue and Michigan at Michigan State. The Minnesota game is expected to enable Purdue to catch up with Indiana in the Big Ten race. The Butlermakers have won six and lost none while Indiana has seven victories against no defeats.

About This And That In Many Sports

Court Game Tonight

There is basketball tonight at the Athletic club with the Washington C. H. Triangle club providing opposition for the C. A. C. team. A preliminary starts at 7:30 with the main-go about an hour later. The invading team has Noon, Reno, Zartman, Vincent, and several other efficient cagers on its roster and will provide the Club-men a test.

Bearcats Have It

This University of Cincinnati basketball team has what it takes. Last week Miami went to Cincinnati for a ball game and led until the final moment of play, then lost by three points—Saturday night, Ohio university was the foe of the Bearcat, and with 50 seconds to go was ahead—But Cincinnati overcame the margin and won, 35-34—Ohio U had been ahead from the start.

Spohrer Capable

Al Spohrer, catcher for Boston Bees, should look mighty good in a Red Bird uniform. If Spohrer will accept the down-the-river trek he is good enough to feature the AA race; if not, then he'll be another flop. There is the possibility that Spohrer will never wear a Columbus uniform, because one never can tell what a purchase means in the Cardinal outfit until the new man really gets into action. Remember Frank Sigafoos.

Only Three Games

A matter of three games separates the Red and Black cage team from the top of the league, and many fans will say that fact constitutes a poor season. That is not true. The Tigers have been victims of injuries and sickness and but for that would now be resting on top the loop—Delaware, victor twice over the Tigers, and still undefeated in the league, looks to us, as inferior to the Marysville team which is now in second place.

HAARLOW HOLDS HIS MARGIN OVER BIG TEN'S CAGERS

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Capt. Bill Haarlow of Chicago, with an average of 14 points a game, retained his individual scoring lead in the Big Ten basketball race today with a total of 98 points.

His principal rival, Capt. Bob Kessler of Purdue, has averaged 12 points per game to take undisputed possession of second place with 72.

Both were hot Saturday night, Haarlow collecting seven baskets and two free throws against Indiana, and Kessler getting five field goals and two free throws against Iowa.

CLUB SPONSORS BOXING TOURNEY

Hussey Heads Committee for Matches on March 2

Plans were announced Monday by a Circleville Athletic club, committee headed by Earl Hussey, for a boxing tournament to be held March 2 in the club gymnasium. The number of entries will determine the duration of the tournament.

Youths entering the tournament should be residents of Pickaway-co, and if under 21, should have the written consent of their parents.

Each bout is to consist of three rounds staged under amateur rules with all youths to be matched as to weight. Prizes will be awarded in each division. Applications should be entered as soon as possible.

The Club committee urges organizations, clubs and business houses to sponsor boxers.

Classes will be conducted in the following weights: 112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 160, 175 and heavy-weight.

FINLAND SCORES 4-MAN SKI TEAM OLYMPIC VICTORY

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Finland scored its first victory of the fourth winter Olympic games today when its four-man ski team captured the 40-kilometer relay race.

The Finns won by a mere six seconds over a Norwegian team which finished second after assuming a commanding lead early in the race.

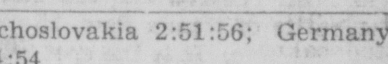

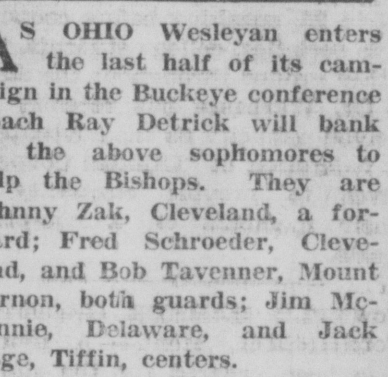

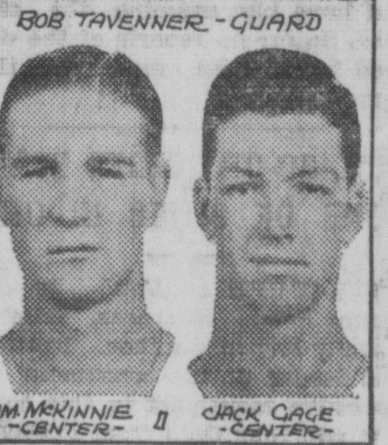

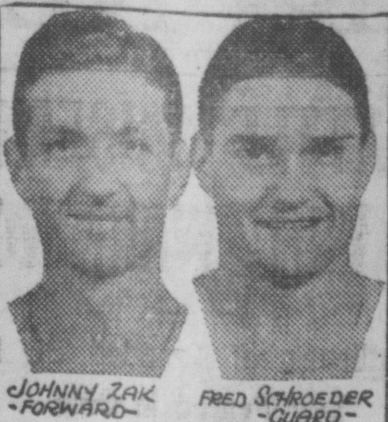

Finland's time for the course, consisting of four ten kilometer (6.21 miles) laps was two hours, 41 minutes, 33 seconds.

Third place went to Sweden in 2:43:35 while Italy finished fourth. Czechoslovakia was fifth, followed by Germany.

The American four man team finished 11th in three hours, six minutes, 26 seconds. The blue-clad U. S. combination was composed of Warren H. Chivers, Hanover, N. H.; Paul Ottar Satre, Salisbury, Conn.; Birger Torrissen, Norfolk, Conn., and Richard E. Parsons, Salisbury.

Other times were: Italy, 2:50:55;

Bishop Sophs

As Ohio Wesleyan enters the last half of its campaign in the Buckeye conference Coach Ray Detrick will bank on the above sophomores to help the Bishops. They are Johnny Zak, Cleveland, a forward; Fred Schroeder, Cleveland, and Bob Tavenner, Mount Vernon, both guards; Jim McKinnie, Delaware, and Jack Gage, Tiffin, centers.

Czechoslovakia 2:51:56; Germany 2:54:54.

Victory enabled Finland to move into third place in the unofficial point standings for competition in the games.

Germany, with victories in the men's and women's combined ski events, increased its first-place total to 37 with a point for sixth place in today's event.

COUNTY CAGERS LEAD OSU LOOP

Perry-Co Falls, 15-20; Scores Leads Scorers

Pickaway-co students at Ohio State university are on top in the county club basketball tournament with a clean slate in four contests. Trailing the locals are Columbiana and Wyandot counties.

In their contest last week, the Pickaway quintet knocked off Perry-co, 20-15, although Guilek and Briggs, high-scoring forwards, were off form. Guilek formerly played with Scioto and Briggs with New Holland.

Others who played, and their scores were: Graves, Pickaway, 2; Hoover, Scioto, 2; Scoles, Ashville, 7; Brown, Pickaway, 2; Wilson, Pickaway, 4; Dunkel, Walnut, 3; French, New Holland, 0.

Next Friday evening the local team will play Columbiana-co.

KEARNEY PLACES HOLLYWOOD AS DERBY WINNER

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Hollywood is the year's first red hot tip for the Kentucky Derby, entries for which close today. The race will be run at Churchill Downs May 2.

All it takes to enter a horse in the Kentucky derby is $25, and more than a hundred colts, fillies and geldings will be nominated for America's blue ribbon turf event. It costs another $400 to start a horse in the derby and very seldom do more than 15 get to the post for the mile and a quarter race.

Many Horsemen think the derby comes too early this year and have shied away from it. The most notable absentee will be C. V. Whitney's Red Rain, which won the hopeful at Saratoga and ran a dead heat with Coldstream in the Saratoga special.

Tom Kearney, St. Louis bookmaker, has announced that he intends to make Hollywood his winter book favorite, probably at 8-1. He has tentatively made Grand Slam, Tintagel, Brevity and Coldstream second choices, all at 10-1. Seldom does a winter book favorite win the derby. Frequently he doesn't even get to the post.

Three Estates of Baseball

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

"Ah Wilderness!" Eugene O'Neill's great stage drama, brought to the screen in elaborate form by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, is the current attraction at the Cliftona Theatre.

A smashing triumph for both Wallace Beery, who stars as the lovable, alcoholic, Uncle Sid, and Lionel Barrymore, who plays the father role enacted on the stage by George M. Cohan and the late Will Rogers, "Ah Wilderness!" tells the story of an American family in an intensely human manner and with characters every person in the audience can recognize.

AT THE GRAND

Dixie Lee, who is a natural blonde, has dyed her hair a becoming auburn for the leading feminine role Fox Film's "Redheads on Parade," now at the Grand theatre. The change is so becoming that it threatens to start a new Hollywood style wave.

CATTLE RAISERS GIVEN WARNING

Outbreak of Dreaded Black Leg Feared in Ohio

Farm Bureau officials Monday warned dairy men and cattle raisers of the county to be on the outlook for outbreaks of the dreaded black leg.

Several cases of the disease have been reported in Ross-co and it was feared the malady may spread into this county. It is usually found in low swampy areas and ordinarily attacks cattle up to about two years of age. The disease is recognized by swellings on the legs and skin on the affected area crackles like paper. It was reported there is no cure for the disease but it can be prevented by vaccination.

Farmers having mysterious deaths among their herds should immediately call a veterinarian and have him examine the carcass. So far no reports of the disease have been made in this county.

LEGION ATTACKS GOVERNOR'S ACT

Campbell Urges Veto of Xenia Fund Overridden

COLUMBUS, Feb. 10.—(UP)—The Ohio American Legion today requested posts throughout the state to ask members of the state legislature to override Governor Davey's veto of approximately $200,000 from the budget of the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphans' Home at Xenia.

Milton D. Campbell, department commander and member of the home's board of trustees, said that unless the legislature takes action to restore some of the money to the home when it reconvenes Feb. 25, it might be necessary to release 600 children from the home.

The amount vetoed from the home's budget was largely for a new building, supplies and salaries.

Dropped from Plane

EAST BREWSTER, Mass., Feb. 10.—(UP)—Seven CCC workers, all alive despite more than 22 hours' exposure to rain, snow and freezing weather, were rescued by coast guards from two ice cakes in Cape Cod bay today.

Completion of the daring rescue was reported in a briefly-worded note dropped here by Lieut. P. G. Miller, pilot of a coast guard amphibian, shortly before 11 a. m. The note read:

"Seven men accounted for. Being taken to cutter now."

The cutter was the Harriet Lane, which had battled her way for hours through thick ice that coated virtually all of Cape Cod bay.

All Suffer Exposure

John Fitzsimmons, 19, of Portsmouth, one of those rescued, was found to be suffering from frozen feet. All the seven were from Rhode Island.

The others, all suffering from exposure, were:

Albert Papa, 18, West Warwick.

Thomas Malone, 18, Portsmouth.

Tony Ray, 19, West Warwick.

22 DISCHARGED RELIEF WORKERS WARNED, HIRED

Twenty-two WPA employees, discharged Feb. 5 for failing to perform their duty in protecting material and equipment, were returned to the project Monday morning by Vattier Courtwright, local engineer.

The official notice given by Mr. Courtwright stated: "You may return to work Monday, Feb. 10 at 8 a. m. with definite understanding that a recurrence of the situation means definite and permanent suspension from further work on WPA. This not only applies to the men listed but to any others that might be guilty of such infractions."

The men were laid off following an investigation revealing street tar was burned for heat. They reported for work Monday but the project was not in operation because of the severe cold weather.

The petition also asked a temporary injunction preventing the defendant from encumbering property. Attorney W. D. Radcliff represents Mrs. Sowers.

ARMY'S BUDGET SETS NEW MARK

House Approves Money to
Strengthen Defense

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—(UP)—The house appropriations committee today reported favorably a peace-time, record smashing $543,341,000 war department appropriation bill for the 1937 fiscal year.

The bill provides drastic strengthening of air, land and coastal defense forces.

The bill, an increase of $120,444,000 over last year's appropriation, was $28,200,000 less than the budget estimate.

Most of the increase was attributed to an appropriation of $168,359,985 for non-military activities, including $129,000,000 for rivers and harbors projects authorized by congress.

Principal provisions of the bill:

1. An enlisted force of not less than 150,000 men.
2. The procurement of 565 new planes.
3. Expenditure of $8,500,000 for seacoast defense projects.
4. An increase of 5,000 officers and men in the national guard to a total of 200,000.

The bill carried a total of $374,981,000 for military purposes and made available usage of $2,845,592 by reappropriation. For military purposes alone, the new bill exceeds last year's by $23,803,501.

Budget estimates carried provisions for only 147,000 men but the increase was aimed to garrison completely the Panama and Hawaiian defenses.

NOT EVEN PRISONERS ARE SAFE IN PERRY-CO JAIL

NEW LEXINGTON, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Six prisoners of the city jail here were recovering today from wounds inflicted by Sally Davis Conn, 65, and his son John, 21, who opened the outer jail door Saturday night and fired into the cells after they had been refused admission.

The two men had demanded that they be given refuge in the jail, which already was filled, and warned Sheriff James Adrian that "murder will be committed" when he refused their request.

Two transients in the jail, Frank Nelson, 45, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Frank Ailey, 62, Fairmount, Ky., were shot in the arms and legs by the father and son who were being held in Perry-co jail here while Prosecutor T. B. Williams investigates.

The men, in demanding lodging, declared they were taxpayers and ordered the sheriff to rout out the "non-taxpaying" transients in the prison.

She supervised the loading of the two hand trucks with their baggage, including half a dozen gaily colored hat boxes. She will take up her residence at an apartment house where she and the late Senator Long lived last year.

Governor to Visit Bruno In His Cell

Hoffman Asks Wilentz to
Help Him Seek More
Truth About Abduction

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 10.—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman may visit Bruno Richard Hauptmann in his death cell again and attempt to wring from him new information about Lindbergh kidnapping case, informed capitol sources said today.

Hoffman was encouraged by the outspoken support of the young Republicans of New Jersey, probably the most powerful rival in the state of the old guard Republican state committee faction that has threatened Hoffman's political life since he saved Hauptmann from death last month.

It was reported that the governor had asked Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who prosecuted Hauptmann for the Lindbergh kidnapping, to accompany him to the condemned man's cell and help him obtain information he thinks Hauptmann may have.

OHIO SECURITIES HEAD DIES AT 33

Hugh E. Addison, Columbus
Native, Ill Since October

COLUMBUS, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Hugh E. Addison, 33, head of the state securities division, died today of a mysterious disease which he contracted last October. He had undergone 14 blood transfusions while confined in a hospital.

Addison, a native of Columbus, practiced law for several years and in 1930 was elected to the legislature. He was re-elected in 1932.

A year ago he was appointed chief of the securities division. He made a trip to Mexico last summer to investigate a lumber firm which had requested permission to sell securities in Ohio. Physicians believed he may have become infected with a tropical disease during the trip.

He was an accomplished athlete. During his high school days he was national junior backstroke swimming champion. He attended Depaw and Ohio State universities.

The planes will be the first British Air Force ones to visit Japan, and the flight marks a new extension eastward of flights from Singapore.

SUPREME COURT DELAYS VERDICT IN POWER CASE

Judges Meet Monday But Crowded Courtroom is Disappointed Again

MANY TRENDS POSSIBLE

Attorneys Believe Action,
When Given, Will Mold
Future Policies

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—(UP)—The Supreme court again today delayed its decision on the administration's power program as typified in the Tennessee Valley experiment.

The decision has been expected each session of the court for more than a month since it invalidated the AAA. Each time a crowded courtroom has been disappointed.

Interest centers on the immediate fate of TVA with its unprecedented plan to provide cheap power through federal development and distribution, but the case may have an affect reaching to numerous other power projects in which the federal government has had a hand.

Because of the long delay in deciding the case, it was believed almost certain that the ruling would serve as a mold for future power operations.

Many Opinions Possible

It was possible the court's opinion when finally given might take one of many trends. They were:

1. Denial of the federal government's right to dispose of power developed in connection with navigation or flood control projects in competition with private industry.
2. Approval of such a power.
3. Refusal of the right of non-voting preferred stockholders of the Alabama Power company, plaintiffs in the TVA suit, to challenge the sale of the company's transmission lines to TVA.
4. Approval of the sale of the power developed at Wilson dam but leaving undetermined the right

Tommy, city hall cat, was struck by a hit-skip motorist Saturday night and all his nine lives were taken.

Tommy had been a resident of the city building for more than a year and spent most of his time in the "Bum" room. Officers reported he just strolled into the building and made it his home. Each morning Officer Fred Fitzpatrick brought the cat table scraps.

Tommy has a successor that wandered into the city building about a month ago but so far officers have given the new cat no name.

STATE LIQUOR STORE ROBBED; $2,700 TAKEN

CLEVELAND, Feb. 10.—(UP)—A state liquor store was robbed of week-end receipts totaling $2,700 today.

Five employees of the store, located in a busy shopping district, were lined up with their faces to a wall while the robbers ransacked the place.

Since July 1, 1934, robbers have obtained more than $17,000 in liquor store robberies here.

May Lead Ohio Anti-Borah Forces

APPEARANCE of Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, for a speech in Cincinnati, O., stimulated the "beat Borah" sentiment among Ohio Republican circles. Colonel Knox deferred making the expected announcement that he would enter the Ohio presidential primary and as a result it was suggested by the Old Guard that the Ohio G. O. P. back Knox as its first choice for the Republican nomination for president, and secondly, that the central committee adopt the publisher as its "favorite son" candidate.

INJURIES MINOR AS CARS CRASH

Officers Investigate Three
Wrecks; Highways Icy

Three auto accidents were investigated by city and county officers during the week-end.

Robert Hedges, 22, of Ashville, driving a Ford sedan, narrowly escaped injury early Sunday when his car skidded on Route 23 about a quarter of a mile north of the city, struck a telephone pole and overturned in a ditch. Hedges, riding alone, was uninjured.

Autos driven by John Bowsher, E. Union-st., traveling north on Pickaway-st., and Woodrow Clifton, Rt. 5, going west on Mound-st., were damaged when they collided at the intersection.

Three persons were treated by Dr. E. L. Montgomery for minor cuts and bruises Saturday afternoon after an accident at Route 22 and 104. A Chevrolet roadster traveling south of Route 104, driven by Gilbert Morrison, W. Main-st., Columbus, collided with a DeSoto sedan, going east on Route 22, driven by C. H. Stroupe, Mt. Sterling.

Mr. Stroupe suffered a lacerated right knee and Mrs. Morrison and a daughter, Francis, 12, were treated for bruises.

SQUEAL FROM INCUBATOR SHOWS TINY BABY ALIVE

OAKLAND, Cal., Feb. 10.—(UP)—An occasional squeal from a glass-enclosed incubator today attested apparent improvement in the condition of the world's smallest baby, 15-ounce Nancy Lee Vogt.

Dr. J. W. Sherick and Dr. H. E. Stanford, physicians attending the tiny infant born to Mrs. Anne Vogt, 34, eight days ago, said Nancy Lee is overcoming an attack of jaundice which had caused some concern for her and that she now is being given more food.

"The patient is more alert and her condition is quite satisfactory," the physicians announced.

"We are now feeding the patient two teaspoons of buttermilk mixed with lactose every two hours."

AND FESS VERBAL BOOT OVER CANDIDACY

Challenge of Idaho Man for May Be Ignored; Ohioan Hits His Ballotting

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Sen. William E. Borah's challenge to the regular Republican leadership to pit a presidential candidate against him in Ohio probably will be ignored, it appeared today.

Party leaders are expected to proceed with their plans for an unopposed or favorite son delegation from Ohio to the Republican National convention. Borah's Ohio representatives have taken the first step toward putting up candidates for all 52 of the delegate seats to be filled in the Ohio primary May 12.

Borah is the only candidate who has announced he would go before Ohio voters, Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas is not expected to contest the state, Sen. L. J. Dickinson of Iowa has said he would not and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg insists he is not a candidate. A decision is expected shortly from Frank Knox, of Chicago.

Ex-Sen. Fess Replies
Borah's charge that the favorite son plan in Ohio was a "sham and a deception," brought reply today from former Sen. Simeon D. Fess of Ohio. As former chairman of the Republican National committee and a politician of ability and experience, Fess practically read Borah out of the party. He denied Borah's suggestion that he was for Herbert C. Hoover for president.

"I couldn't be for Sen. Borah," Fess added, "without feeling compelled to apologize to the Republicans of the state and nation. The Republicans will want a candidate who has voted for more Republican measures than Democratic proposals and who is more popular with Republicans than with Democrats."

"The standard bearer of the Republicans must take a position against the new philosophy of the New Deal as a common sense proposition."

"The press reports the president as pleased with Sen. Borah's candidacy. When asked whether that was because he would be the easiest candidate to beat, the president was quoted as replying: 'Oh, no, it is because if he were elected, he would go farthest in carrying out my policies.'"

The Harriet Lane made the rescue by approaching as closely as possible to the ice cakes on which the seven were marooned, and then sending a party across several hundred yards of ice with a dory.

Hunger from which the youths had suffered during the first 20 hours of their isolation had been appeased by emergency food supplies dropped by army planes from the Concord, N. H., base of winter air maneuvers.

For a time during the night fears had been felt that the boys might never be found alive. Although they had suffered severely from exposure, they were in far better condition than had been anticipated.

Two Saved First

The ice crew from the cutter first rescued two of the youths who had been trapped on a small ice cake which broke off the larger one. Shortly after, rescuers reached the other five, beating a crew

Several of the youths had to be half-carried to the cutter, which was expected to land all at Provincetown, some 25 miles down the bay for hospitalization.

The youths wore wool Khaki uniforms, mackinaws, service shoes, wool hats and gloves. They had been strolling with comrades and had no food, no water, and only the comparatively few matches carried by smokers. The night was black, filled with rain and snow, and only the brightest of signals could penetrate it.

CCC workers, their comrades, kept bonfires burning along the bay shores all night, hoping they would see the glow on the sky, and realize that rescue efforts were being made.

RAUSENBERGER RETURNS FROM WILDLIFE MEETING

Ed Rausenberger, prominent Pickaway-co sportsman, has returned from the American Wild Life Institute held last week in Washington, D. C., and reported he obtained a vast amount of information on the Chuckor partridge, the bird sportsmen are interested in introducing in this county.

"All of the information is very favorable," Mr. Rausenberger said. He plans to tell sportsmen more about the bird, either at the annual banquet or the next regular meeting.

of the government to dispose of power created at projected dams.

New Deal lawyers refused to estimate the possible effect of an adverse decision on the Roosevelt power program.

May Affect Towns

Directly in connection with TVA, it was felt that an adverse ruling would affect municipal power projects in a dozen Tennessee valley cities and towns which have been financed with WPA funds. Without federal authority to distribute TVA power, the municipalities presumably would be obliged to build their own generators or transmission lines or buy from private power interests.

eries were limited to a half a ton by a proclamation of the mayor.

Waterloo was isolated with no mail available. For the twenty-seventh day the temperature in Des Moines failed to reach above the normal winter level. It was seven below early today.

Again Far Below

Temperatures moderated somewhat in Minnesota and the Dakotas Sunday afternoon but dropped below zero again today. It was 22 below at Dickinson, N. D., 20 below at Jamestown and 17 below at Fargo. St. Paul reported seven below after the mercury had climbed to eight above Sunday.

With the milk supply from northern Illinois and Wisconsin sharply curtailed, Chicago stores limited sales but all deliveries were made today. A shortage will be averted if highways are cleared by tomorrow.

Zero weather during the past week reduced wholesale and retail sales in Chicago, the Association of Commerce reported.

Schools were closed in most rural districts of the midwest.

Volunteers worked through Saturday night's blizzard to clear roads for trucks carrying coal to Audubon, Ia., permitting the school to reopen. But with coal shortage relieved an epidemic of scarlet fever threatened to close the school.

Miners Escape Death

After being isolated for 17 hours, nine miners dug through a quarter-mile of eight-foot drifts over which they proceeded to Des Moines.

Twenty automobiles were stalled near a roadhouse north of Elkhorn, Wis., after a collision made the road impassable. Several of the 45 persons who were accommodated overnight in the roadhouse suffered frozen hands and feet while walking through a mile of snow.

Mrs. Thomas Dickson, critically ill since her husband was found dead in their Illinois farm yard Friday night, was marooned by the storm. Gov. Henry Horner ordered snow plows to clear four miles of road from Lewistown to the Dickson home so that a physician could reach it.

Wisconsin's fourteenth victim of the cold wave was August Troia, 41, of Madison, found dead in snow near his home.

More snow was forecast for Wisconsin and upper Michigan; while clear weather with gale-like winds was in prospect for other central states.

The Kansas City Power and Light Company averted a coal shortage by dividing a reserve of 500 carloads among dealers.

and sub-freezing temperatures.

Also accompanying Mrs. Long were her sons, Russell, student at Louisiana State university, and Palmer. Russell, whose resemblance to his father is striking, will return to school in a day or two. He carried several books under his arm.

Gov. James A. Noe of Louisiana, who appointed Mrs. Long to the senate after the death of Gov. O. K. Allen, was with the party. He said 99.9 per cent of the people of Louisiana are "tremendously pleased" by appointment of Mrs. Long.

Others included Seymour Weiss, political associate of Long; Mrs. Aldin Hollingshead, a sister, and Gilmore McConnell, a brother. Earl Cristenderry, Long's secretary, met the party.

Quiet and gracious in contrast to the rough manners of the Kingfish, Mrs. Long returned to a capital which knew her only as the retiring, unostentatious wife of one of the most colorful figures that Washington had ever seen.

Sits Near Colleague

Mrs. Long has been assigned a seat in the rear row of Democratic senators, a few desks away from Mrs. Hattie Caraway, the only woman thus far to serve a regular term in the senate. Long was largely instrumental in winning that election for Mrs. Caraway.

It was Mrs. Long's victory 26 years ago in the cake-baking contest that won her a husband. Long at the time was a salesman for a shortening compound, promoting cake-making competitions as a means of calling attention to his product.

Long was only 17 at the time and Mrs. Long's efforts sided him considerably in furthering his political ambitions. She was the custodian of the elaborate card indices which he kept for use in his political campaigns.

Oddities in Nation's News

HOMICIDE SQUAD ROBBED

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(UP)—The police homicide squad was almost as interested in burglaries as in murders today. Someone smashed the rear window of the squad's motor car in front of headquarters last night and stole a kit of tools. The tools included hacksaws, chisels, a steel jimmy, pliers, shears, rubber gloves and a flashlight. The chagrined homicide squad didn't need Commissioner Lewis Valentine's caustic comment to know that burglars also use those tools.

MARRIED IN VAULT

JOPLIN, Mo., Feb. 10.—(UP)—Charles Homan of Tulsa, Okla., and Miss Lorraine Thompson of Joplin wanted their marriage kept secret, so they persuaded Frank Armstrong, justice of the peace, to perform the ceremony in his office vault.

CELLAR IS PLEASANT

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Feb. 10.—(UP)—Workers on the new city hall foundations are glad to go down into the 40 foot cellars these days for the temperature in them is in the 50's while at ground level it is near zero.

WOMAN'S SUSPICIOUS

Kansas City, Kan., Feb. 10.—(UP)—Jobita Pisena, 4, attracted by the frost sparkling on a steel pole, put her tongue to it for a taste. It was 15 minutes before police could thaw her loose.

ONLY THE WIND

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Three men entered a loop music store by shattering a plate glass window. Before the robbers fled they tried out the instruments. Two of them tooted a few strains on saxophones while the third kept accompaniment on an accordion. A night watchman reported he heard "a little tootin'" but figured it was just the wind howling.

Entries Heavier for 2nd Week

MRS. DREISBACH WINS WITH "YELLOW ANGEL FOOD"

Prizes of $3, $2 and $1 will be awarded every week for the three best entries in this recipe contest. All you have to do is select some recipe that you consider a "best" and mail or bring to this office not later than Thursday of this week. Competent judges have been selected to carefully check each entry. Be sure you accompany your recipe with a sales slip from one of the advertisers or a container or wrapper of one of the products advertised.

Those who submitted entries in the past and failed to be among the prize winners are urged to send in more recipes. Do not become discouraged after one attempt. YOUR RECIPE MAY BE A PRIZE WINNER THIS WEEK, and a three dollar check is well worth the effort!

The second week of our recipe contest has passed and we have three more winners of our $6 award, which is to be given every week. The judges experienced a busy two days in studying each entry thoroughly and the results of their labors are listed below.

(NOTE: A new system will be used this coming week in turning the entries over to the judges from the office of the editor of this page. As each entry is received it will be given a number and the name of the person entering it will be torn or erased from that recipe. This action will forestall any claim of favoritism on the part of entrants. When your recipe has been prepared this week place your name at the bottom of the last page so it may be cut off from the recipe itself.)

Please include only ONE recipe with each wrapper, container or sales slip. If possible, use only one side of paper for your recipe.

YELLOW ANGEL FOOD

5 Eggs
½ cup cold water
1½ cups sugar
1½ cups flour "Laurelville Special". Sift three times
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ teaspoon cream of tartar

Beat yolks of eggs until thick and lemon colored. Add water and beat 2 minutes, add sugar and beat a minute. Add flour, baking powder and salt sifted together. Add vanilla. Beat whites stiff, adding cream of tartar when foaming. Fold whites into batter and pour in ungreased angel food pan. Bake in oven which is slow at first. After 15 minutes increase heat to moderate oven. Then bake for another 30 minutes. Invert pan until cake is cold. Ice with "Ice Cream Icing".

Ice Cream Icing

2 tablespoons butter creamed
2 unbeaten egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla

Enough powdered sugar to make icing creamy, beat until smooth and of right consistency for spreading on cake.

An empty Special Patent Flour sack accompanied this recipe.

SECOND PRIZE

GINGERBREAD

Place in a warm mixing bowl
½ cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup molasses
2 eggs
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup of flour—Beat together very hard for two minutes, using a slotted spoon or Dover egg beater. Add one more cup of flour sifted with one teaspoon of soda and a little salt; beat again for one minute. This will be rather a stiff batter. Last add ½ cup of boiling water and beat again briefly. Bake in moderate oven. The cake is very light, tender and delicious when served immediately with whipped cream, or a spoonful of vanilla ice cream with each serving.

Variety in baking makes a welcome change — Marshmallows may be split and dropped on top of batter, or if desired bake in two pans and put together with strawberry jam or orange marmalade — Another nice fruit filling is made, by draining juice from apricots and then pressing them through a sieve. To one cup of pulp, add one egg white and one scant cup of sugar, beat until thick with Dover beater, or in place of apricots substitute fresh strawberries or raspberries.

A Blue Ribbon Dairy Bottle cap accompanied this recipe.

THREE YEARS OF HITLER

GERMANY now enters the fourth year of government under the man who was once a corporal in the Austrian army. He is not an admired or a respected figure in the world in which we live. There is an inclination, in fact, to view him as grotesque. But few persons of discernment will make the mistake of looking upon Herr Hitler as an unimportant personality in the general scheme of international affairs.

Hate, despise, ridicule or condemn him, as most fair-minded persons do, the fact nevertheless remains that Hitler has gathered to himself great power which he knows how to exercise effectively. Germany, beaten, dismembered and ruined economically by the war, no longer is regarded as important.

In defiance of Versailles and the vigilance of powerful and fearful enemies, Germany has reared and, through remarkable determination and resourcefulness, has been developed into one of the two or three most powerful military forces in Europe. Even now the mind's eye of the dictator turns to the west and the east in search of new frontiers.

Of course, the rearmament of Germany has not been accomplished without heavy sacrifices. The German people have been stripped of their religious, their academic and their social freedom. Most of their liberties are gone. Their economic structure is built upon the sands and it is only through the most ruthless methods that national discipline is maintained.

It does not seem just or reasonable that such a government, sustained by oppression, should endure. Its future becomes a matter for interesting speculation.

Can't the supreme court do something about the weather?

So starved are we for a sign of spring that even a poem on the subject would be welcome.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

One Republican observes with equanimity the entrance of Senator William E. Borah into Ohio to give open battle to the regulars. That man is Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan.

The stage had all been set for "favorite sons" in Ohio and elsewhere, to permit a "trading basis" at the national convention in Cleveland.

Senator Borah objected to that. The "favorite son" states could swing enough votes to nominate Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas.

Now Senator Borah will fight a battle royal with the regulars, and try to prevent the choosing of "favorite sons" in such big states as Ohio.

Adherents of Senator Vandenberg believe that when the two sides have battled themselves to exhaustion, he will be able to capture the nomination.

DORAH MAY WIN

Senator Borah may win out at that, in Ohio. The machine Republicans in Cleveland, as well as the progressive Republicans, have lined up for Borah.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

OPPOSING OPINIONS CAUSE BITTERNESS BETWEEN JUSTICES STONE, ROBERTS

WASHINGTON—For some time it has been no secret that there is a definite lack of cordiality between certain members of the Supreme Court. How far that bitterness extends, however, is known only to a few.

Quite open in their hostility to the liberal wing of the Court have been Justices McReynolds and Butler. McReynolds blatantly read a newspaper when Justice Cardozo took his oath, usually does not take lunch with his colleagues, and delivered a scorching tirade from the bench when the Gold Decision was handed down.

Just as deep-rooted, but carefully concealed by surface cordiality, is another strained relationship between two of the ablest and most forceful members of the Court.

They are Justice Harlan Fiske Stone and Justice Owen J. Roberts.

STONE VS. ROBERTS

These are the two men who delivered the vigorous and diametrically opposite decisions in the AAA case. They are also the two men who have handed down more conflicting opinions than any other two justices. Of recent years they have opposed each other all along the line.

And yet—though few people know it—Justice Roberts owes his appointment to Justice Stone.

It happened that Justice Stone was Herbert Hoover's closest adviser on all Court matters. Every morning at seven o'clock, Stone went to the White House to play handball with the President, afterward drank orange juice with him, gave advice on whatever was on Hoover's mind.

In this way he recommended the appointment of Roberts, and later of Cardozo, to the Supreme bench.

Stone had known Roberts as government attorney in the Teapot Dome oil scandals, was greatly impressed by his ability, strongly urged him upon Hoover. Since, then, however, he has made no secret of his disappointment in Roberts' apparent desertion of the liberal views he seemed to hold as Teapot Dome attorney.

PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES

One of the peculiar twists which fate has given to the situation is that both Stone and Roberts, once good friends, now in constant disagreement, have been mentioned frequently as Republican presidential timbers.

Intermittently during the past three years, friends of Justice Stone have approached him asking permission to boost him for the nomination. At first Stone's friends say he considered the matter seriously. But for approximately two years he has turned a complete cold shoulder to the idea.

Justice Roberts also has told close friends he did not want to get into the Presidential race. However, Roberts seems to have considered the question much more seriously than Stone. Only a short time ago it was a question of grave debate within the Roberts family.

By Charles P. Stewart

"Earnings of E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co., from its chemical business last year, were by far the largest in the company's history, exceeding even 1929 by about 18 per cent and 1928 by more than 80 per cent, the company's annual statement reveals."

ALSO QUOTED

Also quoted by ultra-New Dealers is this comment made by Dr. Charles Edward A. Winslow, professor of public health at Yale School of Medicine (speaking before the New Jersey Institute of Family Relations):

"If we build model housing projects in slum districts and expect the investment to pay, we defeat our purpose. The poor cannot pay the rent. They move out, and higher income, white-collar groups move in. The only solution is to provide subsidies to help these people pay the rent. If we put them into model houses, with subsidies, they will respond quickly to their new environment."

Comptroller General McCarl, Republican, recently ruled that rent on governmental housing projects would have to be sufficiently high to liquidate the investment.

With All My Heart

READ THIS FIRST:

Thora Dahl, who has left her home in Minnesota and journeyed east, obtains a position as housekeeper for a certain gentleman named Selwyn Marsh who lives in suburban New York. She is to replace a Mrs. Myron who is going on a long vacation.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 8

TO THORA'S surprise, there was no sign of Mr. Marsh when she entered the dining room the next morning, refreshed by a night's sleep and ready for any emergency. After some hesitation, she had donned a house dress, blue-checked, a shade that very nearly matched her eyes. Her golden hair was smooth and her cheeks glowing.

Mrs. Myron, who was seated alone at the table, compressed her lips as she looked up. All she said was:

"Good morning, Mr. Marsh is having his toast and coffee in the library. He wants to see you after you eat."

Thora's spirits suddenly fell. What did he want to tell her... that he couldn't just as well have told Mrs. Myron? That little woman's face was perfectly expressionless as she attacked her cereal. What had Thora done... or what hadn't she done? Was Mr. Marsh going to tell her that she didn't suit? Should she have acted differently? Been more talkative, assertive...? She couldn't do that under the circumstances.

Well, whatever it was, it would soon be over with. She made an appearance of eating and drank her coffee gratefully. Then, without a word, left the table and walked composedly to the library door. It was closed. She rapped on it gently.

"Come on in," called the familiar harsh voice of the day before. "Well..." Marsh sat back in his chair and stared.

"Mrs. Myron said you wished to speak to me, Mr. Marsh."

"Oh, yes..." He continued staring at her from under his drawn brows, as if she were an apparition of some sort. Thora felt more uncomfortable still, but decided to take the situation into her own hands.

"Did you wish to tell me that you had changed your mind about... me?" she suggested calmly.

"No, I wanted to say that I had a talk with Mrs. Myron last night. She's either completely sold on you, or she's taken a sudden notion to get away. She tells me you can manage the place well enough. What do you think?"

"I will try."

"Then I'll tell her to get along with you. You'll have to handle anything you think you can't handle, see me. But try and try it out by yourself. I hate to be bothered with trifles."

"Very well."

"And let's get off on the right foot. When Mrs. Myron turns over the keys to you, she'll expect you to be right up to you, and don't forget I said so."

"Yes, sir," said Thora Dahl.

Little Mrs. Myron lost no time in making ready for her departure from Fair Acres.

"I guess Selwyn gave you the idea I was all worn out and ready for the scrap heap," she told Thora, glancing up from the stool she had placed between two open trunks. At her feet was a pile of precisely folded garments which she was dividing between the two receptacles as her deliberations dictated.

"He said that you hadn't been very well," the girl admitted.

"Nonsense! I haven't had a vacation for years. But this place is getting on my nerves."

Thora nodded and said nothing.

"That's all," Mrs. Myron explained positively. "I need a rest and Selwyn knows it... same as he knows I'll come back any time he wants me. She held up a long black and white stocking and examined it through her spectacles. "I guess these'll stand another mending. I'm quite a hand to hold on to things."

"It's a good thing for a girl to put something aside while she's young. One never knows what may happen. Wilma throws enough away in a year to dress two or three women. Pity you're not nearer a size."

Thora waited. Mrs. Myron appeared to be lapsing into a near-confidential mood.

"I hate to leave Selwyn, now the time's come," the older woman pursued meditatively. "Lan knows, he's pretty enough to look out for himself. But I've always done it. I can tell him anything I've a mind to... even if he doesn't pay much attention. He's terribly shy."

"This place is getting on my nerves."

sent-minded at times. I hope you'll look after him."

"I will try to."

"I don't know..." Mrs. Myron's eyes traveled to the nearest window and stared out speculatively. "I guess I shouldn't say anything about it, but I figure you got a lot of good sense. I started to tell you one day about... Dottie Steele. I think I will."

Here it was at last.

"She was a friend of Elizabeth's. I don't know what she did with her husband... maybe he's dead by now. She lives on the next place, but she runs over here a lot. You'll see through her. Anybody could... but a man. She's always tried to make it look like Selwyn needed tending to. More lately it's been Wilma. She's forever having something to say about the poor girl needing a mother. As if Wilma didn't have me!"

Thora made no rejoinder. This was not a time to break the spell.

"That's what's been getting on my nerves," Mrs. Myron admitted. She compressed her lips tightly. "Dottie Steele's very sweet to me in front of my face. But she doesn't like me. She knows I'm smart enough to see what she's up to and she's found out she can't boss me. It took Selwyn a long time to figure I needed a vacation. She put him up to it, of course. She'll try to boss you, my dear."

"Will she?"

"She will. You may not know it... but that's why I told you what I did the other day. She's a designing woman, if ever there was one."

DIET AND HEALTH

Rest and Mild Diet Best To Treat Common Colds

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IN THE FIELD of the treatment of the common cold there is just as much confusion as there is in the field of prevention. Lieut. Col. George B. Foster, who did some valuable research in the cause of the common cold, was quoted a year or two ago as saying that he was averse to impressionistic science and, therefore, had nothing to say on the subject. The fellow who has a cold may be just as averse to impressionistic science as anybody, but he would like to know if he can get some relief, and most of the treatments are directed towards relief.

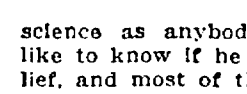

A word of warning should be sounded against the treatments, especially those strenuous treatments, which are directed against cure. To follow the advice of those who tell you to go out in the winter weather and walk ten miles, or take a cold bath, or to do both, does more harm than good. In any such case as colds running into pneumonia, this is one of the ways in which it happens.

The best advice that can be given anybody with a cold is to conserve the recuperative powers of the body by rest and a mild diet. And this is exactly what the body instinctively tells you to do, anyway.

Professor's Advice

The best advice for the treatment of the common cold, I believe, is that given by Dr. Harold S. Diehl, professor of preventive medicine at the University of Minnesota. From his recent book, called "Healthful Living," I abstract his advice as follows:

"Several years ago a series of studies were conducted by the health service of the University of Minnesota to determine the value of various forms of treatment of the common cold... Physicians wrote prescriptions for 'cold medication'... After forty-eight hours of treatment the patients reported the results on cards prepared for this purpose. Upon the basis of these reports the effectiveness of the medication in each case was estimated."

Some of the cold capsules had nothing but milk and sugar, and others had nothing but aspirin, and others had a combination of drugs. The milk-sugar capsules "were included so that we might know what proportion of patients would recover without treatment in the forty-eight-hour period for which results were reported... Approximately 35 per cent of the students who got only sugar tablets reported improvement or cure of their acute colds within forty-eight hours. Some of these experienced such prompt and remarkable improvement that they were moved to comment that these tablets were the most effective treatment that they had ever tried for their colds. The fact that such a large percentage of persons with colds recover spontaneously within a few days is noteworthy."

"In this study several opium derivatives which carry no practical danger of habituation were tried in different combinations, proportions and dosages. Finally, a preparation consisting of equal parts of codeine and papaverine was selected as most valuable for this purpose. Of 1,500 students who were given this preparation for the treatment of acute head colds, between 70 and 75 per cent reported definite improvement or complete relief within twenty-four to forty-eight hours."

S. M. Cryder Sr., Frank Hamilton, Harold Hott, Charles H. Smith, and Albert Crist went to South Bloomingville to see a new gas well shot.

Circleville debaters, negative and affirmative, met Lancaster and Washington C. H. and lost. On the local teams were Scott Eagleston, Earl Leist, Gladys Wentworth, Norma Ross, Harry Boyer, Katherine Eymann, Edward Imier, and Bonna Rader.

25 YEARS AGO

The medical society had its annual dinner meeting at the American hotel. At the table were Drs. G. H. Colville, A. W. Holman, D. V. Courtright, J. Loring Courtright, H. C. Allen, Howard Jones, G. G. Leist, W. L. Peters, T. Blackstone, O. H. Dunton, G. T. Rowe and G. R. Gardner.

A pretty ceremony was conducted at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Strubling by Dr. David Tappan when Miss Nelle Hurdle and Robert T. Dills of Columbus were married.

Ruth McManamy has been appointed official stenographer for the department of agriculture at Ohio State university.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

ONE HAND IS AS RARE AS ANOTHER

IF NAMED card by card, one hand is as rare as another. For example, it is just as uncommon to hold 4 deuces, or 4 cards of any other denomination, as it is to hold 4 aces. Consequently when a denizen of 277 Park avenue asked me last evening whether the following problem had could have been solved, I said, "Yes." I even admitted that South might have won the game with a maximum number of tricks in actual play. I will explain that in its proper place. In the meanwhile play the hand double dummy, to see what South can win in spades, with an opening lead of the K of clubs.

Hand diagram showing cards: ♠ 9 6 5, ♥ None, ♦ A K Q J, ♣ A 8 7 6 4 2. Opponent's hand: ♠ None, ♥ A Q 10, ♦ 9 7 5, ♣ K Q J 5. Trick count: 10 8 4 3, 2, 8 6 4 3, 2, 10 9.

Win the opening lead with dummy's Ace of clubs. Discard declarer's J of hearts. The natural trick in this hand is to win a spade trick in declarer's hand. The odds being some 24 to 1 against East holding all 5 missing trumps it is probable that North will lead the 9 and that East will cover with the 10, to make good the 8. This will be fatal to efficient defense. In case the 10 does not cover the 9 dummy's J will be played. Even the unusual bidding will scarcely warn South that East holds all five missing trumps. Bidding went: South, 1-Diamond; West, 2-Hearts; North, 3-Diamonds; East, 3-Hearts; South, 4-Spades; West, 5-Clubs; North, 5-Diamonds; East, 5-Hearts; South, 5-Spades; West, 6-Clubs; North, doubled; East, 6-Hearts; South, doubled; North, 6-Spades; East, doubled.

Those who have irregularity of urination, disturbed sleep, depression, aches, pains, drowsiness, dizziness, will find this stimulant diuretic beneficial in flushing the kidneys, dissolving acid, and relieving irritation. Taking a cup of hot water and Dr. Pierce's A-nuric after every meal should bring remarkably quick improvement. Buy of your neighborhood druggist now.

Frank Fay Signs for 13 Weeks on Vallee's Hour

Broadway Star to Take Over Own Program in July; Name Added to Many Others Getting Starts With Rudy

Frank Fay has just signed a contract for appearances on Rudy Vallee's Variety hour every Thursday for the next thirteen weeks and on a program of his own starting next July as a result of his success as a guest performer during the last two months.

Fay started his run on the Vallee program Dec. 26 and has returned to the microphone each week since then by popular demand. Tom Howard and Lou Holtz both played repeat engagements for many weeks but Fay's contract is the first one setting these appearances in advance.

His long run on the Thursday night program makes Fay stand out as the leading new star of 1934. Added significance is attached to his rise to radio fame when it is recalled that the "Outstanding New Star" award in the annual poll of radio editors every year has gone to a performer who first appeared at the microphone in the Vallee Variety hour. Joe Penner was the winner in 1933, when voting in this category was limited. Helen Jepson in 1934, and Bob Burns in 1935. All these made their radio debut with Vallee.

Many other present headlines first attracted the attention of the radio audience in their network debuts when they were guests on the Vallee hour. In addition to the three mentioned above they include Kate Smith, Eddie Cantor, Rubino, Burns and Allen, Frances Langford and Lesie Howard.

Radio Briefs

Stuart Churchill, fine tenor of the Waring program, is featured on a new Musical Reveries program four times a week, and has left the popular Pennsylvanians.

Eleanor Powell of stage, screen and radio is off of the Flying Red Horse program indefinitely. She has overworked herself, the story goes.

The Rhythm Boys, started on the road by Paul Whiteman, will launch a new morning show on CBS Feb. 13 and will be aired Tuesdays and Thursdays. Bing Crosby got his start with this outfit.

Not a bit regretted by autograph hounds who seek his signature, Freeman Gosden (Amos 'n' Andy), has turned autograph hunter, himself. . . . King Edward VIII is no newcomer to radio broadcasting. Americans have had at least a dozen chances to hear him, as the prince of Wales, over the air waves. . . . Lovers of the music of Brahms may listen to an all-Brahms program over the NBC-WJZ chain, Thursday, Feb. 13, 2:30-3:30 p. m., E.S.T.

CHAMPION READY TO START WORK FOR TITLE BOUT

Braddock to Return to Long-shoreman's Job; to Fight in September

WOODCLIFFE, N. J. Feb. 10.—(UP)—James J. Braddock, back from a 3-week Florida vacation, said today he planned to go back to work as a longshoreman at the Weehawken, N. J., docks next week to get himself back into condition for the defense of his title in September.

He plans to work there on and off, when he has no engagements, during most of the spring and summer. It was work as a longshoreman that put him in the fine physical condition that aided him to wrest the title from Max Baer. The champion now weighs 212 pounds, about 15 more than his fighting weight. He expects to fight Joe Louis in September and believes the brown bomber's threats not to meet him until next year are just propaganda designed to get a bigger cut of the gate.

"I'm champion and I'll get my 37-1-2 per cent cent," Braddock said. "I think Louis will take what he's offered. He ought to be glad to get the shot at the title."

SEVEN BIG TEN CONTESTS ON SCHEDULE THIS WEEK

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Wisconsin and Illinois, co-champions with Purdue last year, will come out of retirement enforced by semester examinations to enliven the Big Ten basketball race this week.

Tied for sixth place with two wins and three defeats each, they will meet at Champaign Saturday. The Illini will tangle with Iowa tonight while the Badgers are entertaining Ohio State.

Seven conference and two non-conference games are scheduled during the week. Purdue will play at Minnesota and Butler at Northwestern tonight. Saturday will find Indiana at Ohio State, Chicago at Iowa, Northwestern at Purdue and Michigan at Michigan State. The Minnesota game is expected to enable Purdue to catch up with Indiana in the Big Ten race. The Butlermakers have won six and lost none while Indiana has seven victories against no defeats.

Good at Golf, Too

About This And That In Many Sports

Court Game Tonight

There is basketball tonight at the Athletic club with the Washington C. H. Triangle club providing opposition for the C. A. C. team. A preliminary starts at 7:30 with the main game about an hour later. The invading team has Noon, Reno, Zartman, Vincent, and several other excellent cagers on its roster and will provide the Club-men a test.

Bearcats Have It

This University of Cincinnati basketball team has what it takes—Last week Miami went to Cincinnati for a ball game and led until the final moment of play, then lost by three points—Saturday night, Ohio university was the foe of the Bearcat, and with 50 seconds to go was ahead—But Cincinnati overcame the margin and won, 35-34—Ohio U had been ahead from the start.

Spohrer Capable

Al Spohrer, catcher for Boston Bees, should look mighty good in a Red Bird uniform—If Spohrer will accept the down-the-river trek he is good enough to feature the AA race; if not, then he'll be another flop—There is the possibility that Spohrer will never wear a Columbus uniform, because one never can tell what a purchase means in the Cardinal outfit until the new man really gets into action—Remember Frank Sigafos.

Only Three Games

A matter of three games separates the Red and Black cage team from the top of the league, and many fans will say that fact constitutes a poor season—That is not true—The Tigers have been victims of injuries and sickness and but for that would now be resting on top the loop—Delaware, victor twice over the Tigers, and still undefeated in the league, looks, to us, as inferior to the Marysville team which is now in second place.

HAARLOW HOLDS HIS MARGIN OVER BIG TEN'S CAGERS

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Capt. Bill Haarlow of Chicago, with an average of 14 points a game, retained his individual scoring lead in the Big Ten basketball race today with a total of 98 points.

His principal rival, Capt. Bob Kessler of Purdue, has averaged 12 points per game to take undisputed possession of second place with 72.

Both were hot Saturday night. Haarlow collecting seven baskets and two free throws against Indiana, and Kessler getting five field goals and two free throws against Iowa.

CLUB SPONSORS BOXING TOURNEY

Hussey Heads Committee for Matches on March 2

Plans were announced Monday by a Circleville Athletic club, committee headed by Earl Hussey, for a boxing tournament to be held March 2 in the club gymnasium. The number of entries will determine the duration of the tournament.

Youths entering the tournament should be residents of Pickaway-co. and if under 21, should have the written consent of their parents.

Each bout is to consist of three rounds staged under amateur rules with all youths to be matched as to weight. Prizes will be awarded in each division. Applications should be entered as soon as possible.

The Club committee urges organizations, clubs and business houses to sponsor boxers.

Classes will be conducted in the following weights: 112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 160, 175 and heavy-weight.

FINLAND SCORES 4-MAN SKI TEAM OLYMPIC VICTORY

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Finland scored its first victory of the fourth winter Olympic games today when its four-man ski team captured the 40-kilometer relay race.

The Finns won by a mere six seconds over a Norwegian team which finished second after assuming a commanding lead early in the race.

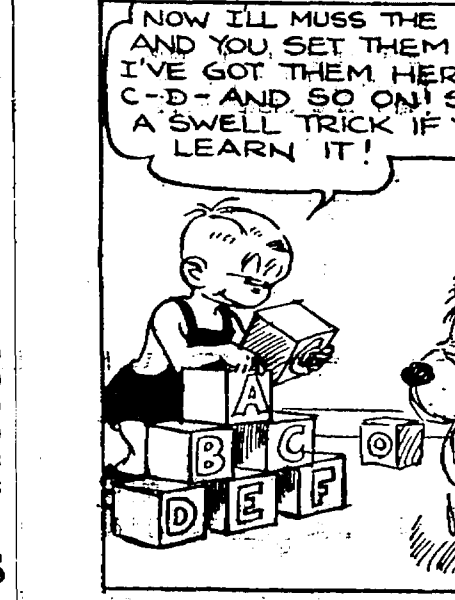

Finland's time for the course, consisting of four ten kilometer (6.21 miles) laps was two hours, 41 minutes, 33 seconds.

Third place went to Sweden in 2:43:3 while Italy finished fourth. Czechoslovakia was fifth, followed by Germany.

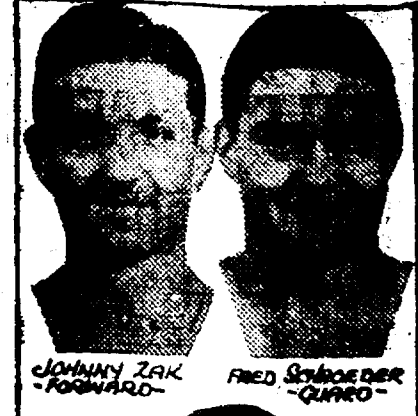

The American four man team finished 11th in three hours, six minutes, 26 seconds. The blue-clad U. S. combination was composed of Warren H. Chivers, Hanover, N. H.; Paul Ottar Satre, Salisbury, Conn.; Birger Torrissen, Norfolk, Conn., and Richard E. Parsons, Salisbury.

Other times were: Italy, 2:50:55; Czechoslovakia 2:51:56; Germany 2:54:54.

MUGGS MCGINNIS

Bishop Sophs

AS OHIO Wesleyan enters the last half of its campaign in the Buckeye conference Coach Ray Detrick will bank on the above sophomores to help the Bishops. They are Johnny Zak, Cleveland, a forward; Fred Schroeder, Cleveland, and Bob Tavenner, Mount Vernon, both guards; Jim McKinnie, Delaware, and Jack Gage, Tiffin, centers.

Czechoslovakia 2:51:56; Germany 2:54:54.

Victory enabled Finland to move into third place in the official point standings for competition in the games.

Germany, with victories in the men's and women's combined ski events, increased its first-place total to 37 with a point for sixth place in today's event.

COUNTY CAGERS LEAD OSU LOOP

Perry-Co Falls, 15-20 Scores Leads Scorers

Pickaway-co students at Ohio State university are on top in the county club basketball tournament with a clean slate in four contests. Trailing the locals are Columbiana and Wyandot counties.

In their contest last week, the Pickaway quintet knocked off Perry-co, 20-15, although Gulick and Briggs, high-scoring forwards, were off form. Gulick formerly played with Scioto and Briggs with New Holland.

Others who played, and their scores were: Graves, Pickaway, 2; Hoover, Scioto, 2; Scoles, Ashville, 7; Brown, Pickaway, 2; Wilson, Pickaway, 4; Dunkel, Walnut, 3; French, New Holland, 0.

Next Friday evening the local team will play Columbiana-co.

KEARNEY PLACES HOLLYWOOD AS DERBY WINNER

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Hollywood is the year's first red hot tip for the Kentucky Derby, entries for which close today. The race will be run at Churchill Downs May 2.

All it takes to enter a horse in the Kentucky derby is $25, and more than a hundred colts, fillies and geldings will be nominated for America's blue ribbon turf event. It costs another $400 to start a horse in the derby and very seldom do more than 15 get to the post for the mile and a quarter race.

Many Horsemen think the derby comes too early this year and have shied away from it. The most notable absentee will be C. V. Whitney's Red Rain, which won the hopeful at Saratoga and ran a dead heat with Coldstream in the Saratoga special.

Tom Kearney, St. Louis bookmaker, has announced that he intends to make Hollywood his winter book favorite, probably at 8-1. He has tentatively made Grand Slam, Tintagel, Brevity and Coldstream second choices, all at 10-1. Seldom does a winter book favorite win the derby. Frequently he doesn't even get to the post.

Three Estates of Baseball

REMEMBER WHEN?

Sweet corn was dried instead of canned as it is at the present time.

Circleville had a woolen mill at the west end of Union-st.

The aqueduct was destroyed by fire.

MADISON-CO SPORTSMEN TO BANQUET ON FEB. 18

LONDON, O., Feb. 10.—Officers announced the annual Fish and Game Protection association banquet will be held in the London Presbyterian church Tuesday, Feb. 18. A turkey dinner will be served by ladies of the church.

THEATRE

AT THE CLIFTONA

"Ah Wilderness" Eugene O'Neill's great stage drama brought to the screen in elaborate form by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, is the current attraction at the Cliftona Theatre.

A smashing triumph for both Wallace Beery, who stars as the lovable, alcoholic, Uncle Sam, and Lionel Barrymore, who plays the father role enacted on the stage by George M. Cohan and the late Will Rogers. "Ah Wilderness" tells the story of an American family in an intensely human manner and with characters every person in the audience can recognize.

AT THE GRAND

Dixie Lee, who is a natural blonde, has dyed her hair a becoming auburn for the leading feminine role in Fox Film's "Redheads on Parade," now at the Grand theatre. The change is so startling that it threatens to start a new Hollywood style wave.

LEGION ATTACKS
GOVERNOR'S ACTCampbell Urges Veto of Xenia Fund Overridden

COLUMBUS, Feb. 10.—(UP)—The Ohio American Legion today requested posts throughout the state to ask members of the state legislature to override Governor Davey's veto of approximately $200,000 from the budget of the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphans' Home at Xenia.

Milton D. Campbell, department commander and member of the home's board of trustees, said that unless the legislature takes action to restore some of the money to the home when it reconvenes Feb. 25, it might be necessary to release 600 children from the home. The amount vetoed from the home's budget was largely for a new building, supplies and salaries.

CATTLE RAISERS
GIVEN WARNINGOutbreak of Dreaded Black
Leg Feared in Ohio

Farm Bureau officials Monday warned dairy men and cattle raisers of the county to be on the outlook for outbreaks of the dreaded black leg.

Several cases of the disease have been reported in Ross-co and it was feared the malady may spread into this county. It is usually found in low swampy areas and ordinarily attacks cattle up to about two years of age. The disease is recognized by swellings on the legs and skin on the affected area crackles like paper. It was reported there is no cure for the disease but it can be prevented by vaccination.

Farmers having mysterious deaths among their herds should immediately call a veterinarian and have him examine the carcass. So far no reports of the disease have been made in this county.
